

Bartering

Terms of Use

1. Listings that do not have full details of their trade entered will be deleted, try entering more than one word. If you would just like to look around first, you can browse listings as a visitor.
2. If you are open for any trade, you must give visitors and members a few suggestions of what you are looking for. Would you like five pairs of knitted mittens for your website design services? Maybe, but in case you don't...please give people a rough idea.
3. Do not attempt to post an item for sale, place a business ad or job listing in the "Post Your Trade". Our free service is for people who want to barter.
4. All trade offers must be responded to politely and in a timely fashion. Members that do not respond to trade offers will have their membership revoked. A simple "no thank-you" doesn't take a lot of effort!
5. No dead offers. During your membership, we ask that you contact at least one person regarding a trade. If you wait around for others to contact you without ever making an effort, you can't blame us if you're not successful.
6. If you have completed your trade and do not wish to be contacted anymore, it is your responsibility to call us and inform us of your completed trade to remove it from the list.
7. Trading of firearms, tobacco, drugs and alcohol is not permitted, as well as listings containing links to adult sites or affiliate ads.
8. You may not disclose or share your password to any third parties or use your password for any unauthorized purpose.
9. User names or listings containing any type of profanity will not be accepted, keep it family friendly!

Anyone sending commercial letters to members that does not relate to their particular trade, will be blocked or have their membership revoked. Please read our Spam Patrol, we look out for each other.
11. Cash for goods is not called bartering, it's called selling. If a reciprocal barter is not of equal value however, you can have the difference paid in cash.
12. If you are business bartering for services and/or goods, it is your responsibility to claim your transactions on your taxes according to your government's laws and regulations.
